

GIO PONTI DIAMOND FLATWARE, SERVICE FOR TWELVE

$10,000

A beautiful and complete service for twelve in the Diamond pattern by Gio Ponti. The line was designed in 1958 in collaboration with Italian architect and industrial designer, Gio Ponti (1891-1979), best known for his Superleggera chair and several buildings throughout Italy, including the Pirelli Tower in Milan along with countless other mid century design classics. Composed of twelve 6 piece place settings that include: dinner knife, dinner fork, salad fork, tea spoon, table/soup spoon, and an individual butter knife. the set has a beautiful luster and has not been over polished rather shows the mellow signs of time. If you choose you could have the entire set wheel polished to look brand new. Here's a chance to set a classic mid-century table with the finest of design represented by this beautiful flatware. This set presents in an unusual lucite case and the measurements in the listing are for the case.
